

On the other side of illusion
The consciousness of the multiple possibilities
(following part)

Yes there is a following part... I learnt about it yesterday at my own expenses. A sudden tiredness forces me to go back to bed again. I lie myself down on my stomach, I put my head down on the right side of the cushion, and just like three days ago, the purple circular screen at first, materializes itself in front of my eyes, always behind the eyelids.

Something tells me that I have an appointment... This time, the screen behind my eyelids transforms itself little by little into an image that becomes an eye.

I recognise my own eye. It looks at me during a few seconds, and then transforms itself into a sort of reptile's eye with a vertical pupil. I identify immediately the expression of the being that appeared to me at the end of my bed approximately seven years ago. It looks at me during a few seconds, then I see tears that shape themselves in its eyes.

I hear : write !

She tells me :

I am the one that has created your body at the origin of this humanity, just like I have created the bodies of the first homo-sapiens-kiristi humans.

I am the one that you call (the) Mother. I am the feminine polarity of the primordial androgynous being. I am a Kadistu-Amasutum.

I know that you already are accustomed to this language and to my own image, but soon certain humans will first of all perceive ourselves in their dreams, after in some visions. And they will be able to understand this language, as the words referring to us are not only sumerian words. They have a meaning and a vibrating resonance which activates certain DNA strands of certain human lineages.

This being said, I offer you to explore the worlds.

Suddenly, my consciousness penetrates the vertical crack of its eye and I find myself “flying” in a sort of pipe formed to start with by the scaly circumference of its eye, to transform itself little by little in a circular wall of stones.

Then I realise that “I have” penetrated the eye through its tears.

It (She) then tells me :

I cry of sadness, but mostly of joy ! I am sad as many of my Annunaki peer-brothers, the descendents of the primordial being of masculine polarity, have not been able to open their heart in order to participate in the grand transition. But the grand joy which inhabits myself, is to see the consciousness of many humans opening itself up slowly but surely towards their true Beingness.

This joy is a vibration that I am recently discovering, because as you now know, our soul agreement with the humans is reaching to an end.

The galactic human that you are has allowed us to do the experience of emotions, of compassion and love, in exchange of your experience of incarnation in the carbonated dimensions.

I continue to fly in the pipe, then it (she) tells me :

I make it possible for you to do the experience of the multidimensional consciousness through what I am showing you, what you see and what you feel.

I then see again scenes of my previous lives as a Native American, a monk, a shooted prisoner during the war, a Cathar, a child... but especially, I can see myself under the form of a being of a winged human form (a Nungal*).

Then I continue to travel in the corridor and can see myself taking some expansion, until being able to hold in my hands something that I suppose to be planets then galaxies. (Extraordinary and spectacular moment, no words exist to describe it.)

I ask her :

- How is this possible ? Why are you showing me that ?

- I am not showing it to you, it is you who see it, and I can also see it as if I was seeing through you.

- Is it the tunnel that dead people see ?

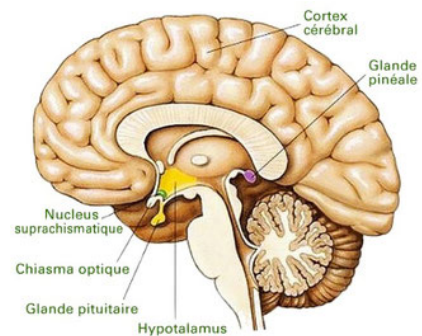

- No it is not the same as you are not dead. You can see all of this thanks to two organs that you humans, call pineal and pituitary gland.

These two glands in the center of your brain, are not only glands that secrete hormones. They are much more than that.

The pineal that you sometimes name the third eye, possesses the same structure than the retina of the eye, the same visual receivers but internal. It makes it possible to “perceive” the invisible world that is around you.

By functioning like a crystal locked up in a magnetic field, they allow you to perceive beyond your terrestrial dimension of 3rd density.

Their “sensitive and optical transdimensional” abilities to both of them, are conveyed towards nerve endings.

- So why does the pineal gland only activates itself in the dark ?

- This small gland also secretes a hormone in the absence of external light (when your eyes are closed or in a dark room).

The ancients of your world have named it “the interior eye” and would describe it as a sort of pipe allowing the soul to connect itself to other realities and dimensions.

The pineal is responsible of the visions that you have during your dreams, but also of your visionary capacities, channelings, automatic writing, apparitions and out of body exits.

The pineal gland also shelters transmitters and receivers allowing the transmission and reception of communications. Such as an internal antenna, it makes it possible for you to receive the frequencies through the crystalline network of the other worlds.

In vision, this phenomenon would appear to you as a wormhole in space, a pipe through which you receive the communications of other worlds.

It represents a portal towards the spiritual knowledge and a connection to the source of every thing.

This portal or this pipe, is the one in which you are moving yourself through.

The pineal gland also contains the cells of the sense of touching, the sense of hearing, the sense of smelling. Whereas the pituitary gland, coordinates and decodes these senses into sensation.

In this way, every thing that the human sees in his dreams, are vibrations that the pineal and the pituitary decodes in order to transmit them to the brain. That giving you the impression to see images coming from another reality.

I have just understood why the being that presented itself at the end of my bed seven years ago, was sticking out in the flooring and the ceiling. I could see in the same way with my eyes open or closed. Actually I could see my bedroom with my physical eyes, and the being through my pineal gland. Both images were coming on top perfectly of one another. I could therefore see another reality that truly exists somewhere else. But it was not from our world !

This other reality is as tangible and material as your 3D reality. So I come to you to make a revelation that the scientists will soon be able to confirm.

It is not really the Earth which is going to “change of dimension”, but it is your perception of reality which is going to change. Perceptions are unique and personal. But when they are co-created by beings on the same vibratory field all of them together, they collectively generate a new reality.

Planet Earth, just like Jupiter, the sun, as well as everything which is in the universe, already exists in superior dimensions.

The ascent is in reality a modification of consciousness going from an unidirectional and carbonated consciousness, towards a multidirectional consciousness of silica; from a unique reality towards multiple realities.

To explain in a simple way, the carbon orientates the cosmic energy flow in a bipolar way +/- therefore only in a unidirectional way, with only one possibility of testing “blindly”, and without being truly aware of it.

Silica can orientate the cosmic energy flow in a multipolar and multidirectional way in order to generate an infinity of testing possibilities, while visualising them consciously.

It is not necessary to go into details for the moment, as your brain can not even yet understand the principle of it. However, the experience that you are living right now will allow you to understand it a bit better, as it is important that you humans, be informed of it.

My fellow brothers of the non light, are misleading you by letting you think that the world changes or is going to change in 2012.

Nothing will change. It is the perception of the world for some that will change.

If you continue in believing that cataclysms will disfigure the planet Earth, you will live the cataclysms.

If you continue in fighting, protesting, being scared, you will continue to fight, protest, being scared.

If you are attached to a guru, a master or dependent on other, you will stay attached to a guru, a master or dependant of other...

Nothing will change if it is not yourselves that change.

For that, you will have to change the perception of the world that surrounds you, and not only will you do it, but you will create this new world, as you will develop a new perception of your universe.

The “journey” that you have just done and that is described here, is possible via the re-activation of your DNA.

As you are supposed to know, humans are born with 2 or sometimes 4 DNA helixes depending on their galactic origin.

Therapists and some searchers are aware of the existence of 12 DNA strands on the spiritual levels. They are in connection with your energetic centers or chakras. There are more existing on non physical levels of existence.

So the humans that have been volunteers in order to accompany their fellow kinds in this transition, are also just about to activate their additional strand.

However you must know that all of the geo climate disruptions, political and social, the New-Age movements, all of the injustices that you see on planet Earth, absolutely all of them, are an illusion due to your perception of the world that gives you the illusion to live one and only reality in a 3D world.

If you place your consciousness in this 3D world, then the illusion of this 3D becomes a 3D reality.

You risk indeed to take punches in a “anti-govern-mental” protest march, if for example you attach some importance to the reality of anti-governmental protest marches.

That is for this reason that my brothers of the dark light, have orchestrated all of this chaos on planet Earth. All the movements of revolt that rumble among humans, are absolutely orchestrated, planned, scheduled by your governments of shadow. This in one and only goal to make canon fodder of humans, as you are then used as a guinea pig for the development of mind control systems.

And why do they want to control your mind ?

To avoid that all of you gain access to your own personal power, your sovereignty. To avoid that you become aware that ascending is not a phenomenon external to yourselves, but that it is exclusively about a translation of your consciousness from a vibratory world to another. It is your way of perceiving the world that changes and not the illusion that produces your reality.

During my journey in this tunnel, I realise that there are many exits that come out on worlds that are familiar to me, and through each exit, there are the eyes of “another me” that see. I also realise that I receive in my unconscious, information by “package”. And I understand everything, at least I have the impression of it.

The being tells me :

I have indeed transmitted to you information that is important for humanity, but be reassured, you are not the only one to carry it.

Humanity is not yet ready to receive it, this must be done slowly but surely.

Few humans are ready to let go of their Buddhist, New-Age, Judeo-Christian or other beliefs...

The essential is that they make the demand from the bottom of their heart, that they accept their errors, that they recognise their ignorance... That is the only way, that they will allow the creation to work and set itself off.

I invite them and I invite all of you to use your divine gift, that is the one of becoming again sovereign of yourself.

Ask to your DNA to emanate in your vibratory field, the love of yourself, the compassion of yourself, the happiness for yourself, prosperity for yourself, while accepting the difficult experiences of your life, the problematics, the fears, the lacks...

You will then start to make function the codon spires of the intelligent DNA, the spiral of life. The codons will know exactly at which spot, in your genome, to insert the new programme that will liberate yourselves from the illusion of duality in your current incarnation.

Take a bit of time to observe this, do it being aware, in consciousness, and all of you be waiting for current prodigious changes in your life.

I am NAMMU, your Mam-AN, the genetic mother of many of you.

I thank all of you from the deepest part of myself, to be who you are !

I am all of you, and thanks to you, I am me.

***

I am stunned, it is a magnificent experience to be able to see on the other side.

I am deeply moved and joyful to be able to share it with all of you.
